It would be asking a good deal of a man suffering from pain to be thankful for his torment. And yet, pain is usually the friend and not the enemy of living creatures. For it is the pain that tells the cause of the trouble. Like the rapping and irritating sound of a siren, it is a danger signal and nature made it irritating for good purpose.

That, briefly stated, is the reason why conscientious physicians condemn all persons who give patent or other "pain-killers" without knowing or caring what the cause of the pain may be. That is why they go slowly in the use of their own hypodermic syringes and when a "hypo" is absolutely necessary, give only enough of the drug to make the patient's condition bearable.

One of the reasons why there are fewer deaths, nowadays, from inflammation of the bowels, than there were some years ago is because physicians generally and patients commonly are more respectful of pain than they used to be. The fact has been well advertised that colicky pains may be due to appendicitis and if it is the appendix and not the pain that needs treatment.

And in the instance of severe "neuritis" or "chills," the cause has been pointed out by all physicians and many mothers and fathers that removing the cause is far more intelligent than trying to relieve the effects. An aching stomach is a warning to be heeded and allowed to rest and not to have some awful smelling and worse tasting concoction poured into it.

The highest intelligence demands that the various causes of pain be removed and not merely masked. In warfare, camouflage was designed to fool the enemy, not the ally. Pain is a friendly detective from which wise people will secure information of sometimes obscure and always unfavorable conditions.

THOSE WERE (NOT) GOOD OLD DAYS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

In it, Sir Charles Wyndham is shown as receiving $15 a week, while Sir Henry Irving received less by about $2. ## STATE LEGISLATURE IS MARKING TIME FOR A FEW DAYS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, April 1.—The Wisconsin legislature is marking time for a few days giving the members an opportunity to vote for local officers throughout the entire state today.

The members have also seized upon this opportunity to talk over some matters of legislation with those at home. Many of the senators declared that they desired an opportunity to talk with some folks about the Willcox grade crossing bill which is a troublesome question in the upper house. This measure would put the entire expense of making a grade separation, ordered by the railroad commission, upon the railroad company. The railroad companies claim that the bill is unfair and it was only by a vote of 15 to 14 that action was delayed until after the election.

Members of the lower house are troubled over the marketing situation. No measure has as yet been worked out and there is a possibility that action may go by the boards. Two bills are now pending before the legislature. One would create a department of marketing within the bureau of agriculture and the other would merge the work of the dairy and food department within a new marketing commission. The problem has become so complicated that many members frankly stated on the floor that the desired time to discuss the question with their friends. Scores of legislators are at the town voting houses today talking matters over.

Election held in Wisconsin today are of minor importance from a statewide standpoint. A judge is being elected to the state supreme court. There are two candidates, Justice Marvin E. Rosenberry of Madison is a candidate to succeed himself on the supreme bench and Julius T. Dittmar of Elroy seeks the same position. The nominees for circuit judgeships are as follows:

First circuit—Ellsworth Burnett Belden of Racine, incumbent no opposition; second circuit, branch at Milwaukee—Gustave E. Johnson, incumbent; John L. Kleist, socialist, to succeed Wm. J. Turner, deceased; Milwaukee circuit—Wm. K. Foley of Superior, incumbent by appointment and W. M. Kennedy of America; Fourteenth circuit—Henry Graas at Green Bay, incumbent.

Ten cities of the state that are dry are holding "wet and dry" elections. These cities are:

Ashtabula, Superior, Rice Lake, Baraboo, Stoughton, Edgerton, Beloit, Waukesha, and town of Merton in Waukesha county.

GUERNSEY BREEDERS WILL NOT HOLD SALE

Guernsey breeders in Rock county will not attempt to stage a public sale this year, M. S. Keilgoe, secretary of the Guernsey breeders' association stated yesterday.

"We cannot get together enough pure bred Guernseys to make a sale successful," he said. "But we are now going to make plans for holding a sale of pure bred next year."

Arrangements for the Guernsey club for boys and girls are now being made and will be announced within the next few weeks.

Trial of Alleged Slayer is Resumed at Houston

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Houston, Tex., April 1.—The trial of William McKinley Hart, charged with the murder of Mrs. Pauline McConnell was resumed today.

The testimony yesterday concerned statements said to have been made by Hart to police and others on the night of the tragedy and of physicians who examined the body of the slain woman.

Hart is charged with killing Mrs. McConnell, wife of a Woodstock, Ill., soldier, February 5. At the time McConnell was in a Chicago hospital recovering from wounds received from overseas.

That, briefly stated, is the reason why conscientious physicians condemn all persons who give patent or other "pain-killers" without knowing or caring what the cause of the pain may be.

That is why they go slowly in the use of their own hypodermic syringes and when a "hypo" is absolutely necessary, give only enough of the drug to make the patient's condition bearable.

Hog Prices Pass $20 Mark at Chicago Stockyards

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, April 1.—Hog prices passed the $20 mark upward bound today when they were quoted at $20.10 per hundred at the stock yards.

The highest war time price was $21 last fall. During the winter, prices dropped slightly under $18, but have been advancing since the government minimum price guarantee was taken off nearly a month ago.

At the U. S. Bureau of Markets, this recent advance was ascribed to the heavy demand coupled with the fact that the winter run of hogs was largely shipped during the winter, leaving the supply comparatively light until the new run of hogs begin in May or June.

COOPERATIVE STORES IN CHICAGO SOON

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, April 1.—The recently formed alliance between the non-partisan league and the Chicago Labor party will make itself apparent in Chicago soon by the appearance of cooperative stores. It was announced today by Morton L. Johnson, secretary of the labor party.

Mr. Johnson said that there would be one store in each of the city's 35 wards and that farm products would be brought to them direct from North Dakota where the non-partisan league is in political control and has put many of its theories into practice. Mr. Johnson added that he will visit North Dakota next week for conferences with Governor Frazier and A. C. Townley, president of the league.

The announcement said that the stores would also serve as labor union headquarters from which strikes would be directed if necessary.

High School News

At the request of the local chapter of the Red Cross the high school students are collecting old clothes to be used for European relief. A large table has been placed on the lower floor and bundles piled on it. All this week pupils have arrived with large bundles of old clothes, until the table has been refilled several times.

On Wednesday of this week the Juniors will meet with the Sophomores and the Seniors clash with the Freshmen in the opening contest of the interclass girls basketball games. The winners of the games will meet on Thursday evening, at which time the championship of the school will be decided. After the championship game a huge banquet will be served for all teams in the school gym.

Class spirit with all its loyalty has broken out in the high school. For the first time in years classes have united and are displaying their unity by opposing the other classes.

The scenes now going on at the high school would remind a college man of the spirit shown in the colleges of the country, only that the scenes are less dignified and more of a smaller scale. During the past few weeks the boldness of the Freshmen and Sophomores has grown with an astonishing speed, while the Juniors and Seniors seem determined to curb the practice of the older boys and respect their elders.

Gangs of Freshmen have invaded the Junior-Senior side and have openly ridiculed the upper classes until forced by the police to leave. The older boys have placed guards at the Senior door of the main room and are blocking all lower classes from entering. The Freshmen have also taken the same stand and stand ready to protect their side of the assembly room. A line has been drawn in the middle of the room at which crowds of students stand ready to repel an invader.

It has been the boys of the main room platform by the Freshmen and Sophomores announcing that the presence of the Juniors and Seniors on their side of the room is not wanted and that it will be dangerous for them to try to enter it.

Even the girls of the classes have entered into the fray with a spirit that threatens to excel the boys. It has been the practice of the older girls at the noon hour and after school to enter the cloak room of the Freshmen-Sophomore girls and use the lavatories and lockers. The older girls have been placed in that room. At the same time the younger girls have become "nerved" and issued a notice requesting the Seniors to keep out of their cloak room. The Senior-Junior class then announced that the girls had originally been theirs and that, insulted by the notice of the Sophs, they would take the mirror and place it in their own room. Rather than see their "lady friends" go out mirrors, the boys of the Senior group openly entered the lower class girls' cloakroom last night and confiscated the mirror. With padlock and chain they then fastened it in their own room, expecting to find it there in the morning. But the Freshmen sprang a surprise and violently pulled the glass from the wall and put it in its original place.

Goodby to such actions as these the older classmen have now determined to stamp out once and forever such insubordination and curb their ardor, if possible, by peaceful means. If not by using force. The younger students, undaunted, are out for blood, and say they will continue their practice. Some interesting developments are expected within the next few days.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, April 1.—By a vote of 140 to 50 the senate last night endorsed the government's demand for the retention of the luxury tax by elimination from the budget bill an article inserted by the chamber of deputies abolishing it.

There were violent protests in the chamber against the senate's action. Deputies who advocated the suppression of the luxury tax arguing that it was not wanted by the merchants and workmen.

GREEN AND OTHERS TO FIGHT PROPOSED FREIGHT RATE BOOST

To enter a strong protest against a proposed change in freight rates which would greatly boost the cost of shipping out of Janesville, Manager Frank J. Green of the Chamber of Commerce will go to Chicago tomorrow to remain until Thursday when the hearing is scheduled to begin in the Federal building.

J. R. Brenner, traffic manager of the Gisholt Manufacturing Co., of Madison, and a member of the Executive committee of the Wisconsin Traffic league, will also be present with other manufacturers to protest.

The hearing will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the office of the Illinois Public Utilities commission in the Insurance Exchange building.

The hearing which may mean a raise in freight rates, was brought about by the Indiana Public Utilities commission against Illinois shippers. The Indiana commission seeks to have the official class and Central Freight Association territory rates raised in Illinois and eliminate all commodity rates, both from points east and to points in Illinois, in addition to eliminating commodity intrastate rates.

Much importance is attached to the outcome of the hearing and local manufacturers, especially iron and steel works, are greatly interested in it.

Mr. Green is president of the local manufacturers and is also going in the capacity of executive member of the Wisconsin Traffic league.

The hearing is set for 10 o'clock tomorrow, before the eastern and western freight traffic commission.

Local telegraph companies, Western Union and Postal today announced an increase in the rate schedule in accordance with a general order issued by the Postmaster General A. J. Burleson. The rate increases which average on a rate of 20 per cent over existing rates, are ordered to meet the increased cost of operation during the past year. The rate increases are to be effective on April 1.

The new rates for all telegraph companies which become effective at 2 a. m. today are as follows:
On full rate messages 25-2 increased to 30-25; 30-2 to 35-25; 35-2 to 40-25; 40-2 to 45-25; 45-2 to 50-25; 50-2 to 55-25; 55-2 to 60-25; 60-2 to 65-25; 65-2 to 70-25; 70-2 to 75-25; 75-2 to 80-25; 80-2 to 85-25; 85-2 to 90-25; 90-2 to 95-25; 95-2 to 100-25; 100-2 to 105-25; 105-2 to 110-25; 110-2 to 115-25; 115-2 to 120-25.

Rates on night messages increased 20 per cent to be arrived at by adding charge at present rate and adding one fifth. Night letters of 50 words same rate as increased rate for 10 word full rate telegram.

Day letter rates are one and one half times the night rate and one half Government rates are increased 20 per cent.

Present press rates remain unchanged.

John C. Hanchett, Jr., 485 North Jackson street.

The prizes will be issued within a few days. Announcement of the time will be made in the Bird Corner to be conducted in this paper.

The bird books are awarded for the best stories on birds submitted in the first of March, to arouse the interest of the children and to stimulate them to observe their feathered friends.

In awarding prizes decisions were based upon the following points: the bird was seen by the child itself; the story was the product of the child's mind, not facts taken from books; the age of the child; general neatness and care in preparing the story.

The prize winning stories will be published two or three at a time in the Bird Corner which will be started the last of the week.

Arrangements for a meeting of the Bird club will be made as soon as possible. The following have been enrolled in the club:
Harold Albrecht, 452 North Pearl street; Jacquelyn Hummel, 412 North Chatham street; Betty Haumerson, 445 North Jackson street; Ruth Seward, 234 North Franklin street; Margaret Quits, 332 North Franklin street; Elizabeth Gridley, 627 North Pearl street.

100 MAGAZINES PER MONTH ENTER SERVICE

An average of 100 magazines a month have been sent away from the local postoffice during the war for the use of soldiers, sailors, and marines, according to a statement of Postmaster J. J. Cunningham this morning.

The postal ruling of allowing the mailing of the magazines by placing a one cent stamp on them has been widely applied, he says.

Continued collection of the magazines for the men still in service is urged in an order from Washington received at the local office this morning. Current or comparatively recent magazines devoted to literature or other articles of general interest are wanted. Old magazines should be accepted. The magazines should be wrapped and unaddressed.

CASUALTY LIST BRINGS FATHER AND SON TOGETHER AFTER 15-YEAR SEARCH AND DAUGHTER IS FOUND IN SAME WEEK

Andrew Hunsacker with his long-lost son, John, and his daughter, Laundla.

Laundla. He had been searching for both of them for fifteen of the seventeen years. Circumstances forced the father to place the children in an orphanage when they were small and when he was in a position to reclaim them he could find no trace of them. His search ended the other day. One day he read his son's name in the paper in the casualty list among those gassed. As soon as the son was invalided home there was a happy reunion, and the daughter, reading of the meeting, discovered that she had a father and brother living, and within a week the three were happily united.

MULQUIN MENTIONED IN ARMY NEWSPAPER

That Michael Mulquin, who left this city last summer for K. of C. work in France among the soldiers, has made a success of his job is indicated by a story carried in the second issue of "The Watch on the Rhine."

The newspaper is the publication of the Third Division Army of Occupation, Marne division, and is published at Andernach, Germany. A copy of the second issue was received here by Fred Schmitt, manager of the labor bureau.

The story follows in part:
"The Knights of Columbus staged a big feature at the Rheinischerhof hotel on the Rhine front at Andernach, the day of the horse show."

"Before nine in the morning a large truck carrying candy, thousands of cigarettes and 10,000 doughnuts pulled into Andernach. Attached to the truck was a field kitchen, which was unhooked back of the hotel and in a few minutes a fire was being briskly. While hot chocolate was being prepared in quantities of 50 gallons, tables were being carried to the spacious veranda of the hotel and loaded down with candy, cigarettes and doughnuts."

"The boys of the Third Division formed in line before the first window where the cups of hot chocolate were being handed out. At the next window came huge fat well-browned doughnuts, then a pack of cigarettes and finally at the fourth window a handful of good American hard candy."

"One fellow asked the question 'any seconds?' and Secretary Mulquin replied: 'Thirty seconds if you want them.' There was plenty for all, and every soldier who passed the line of K. of C. secretaries will remember that on one occasion since he left the U. S. A. when he had lots of doughnuts and cocoa, as well as plenty of smokes and a bit of real candy."

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

ONE GOOD TURN

When the box came telling for copy the other day we were compelled to leave our readers turning somersaults to determine whether they still had had any considerable amount of elastic tissue, i. e., young of the body, these being a series of talks about the prevention of mortification, it behooves us now to explain that we were not joking, but meant what we said seriously.

What is a dignified person of 40 or 50 or 60 years to do? Surely we would not recommend six somersaults night and morning for such venerable ladies and gentlemen?

Old folks will please keep out of our way. This is a series of talks about the prevention of what ails them. Old age is preventable, if taken in time, but we have never maintained that it is curable. People have no business meddling with the contrary, well and good, let them have their own way. If they had adopted somersaults in the heyday of youth, why back when they were 40 or 50, and followed the prescription faithfully all these years, they wouldn't be old folks now—they couldn't be old.

Somersaults are exceedingly poor exercise, for anybody desiring exercise, the primary object is to preserve elasticity, which is youth. We cannot go into all of the scientific details here, but suffice to say that intestinal stasis, which Metchnikoff considered the primary cause of aging, and which certainly makes millions feel and look old, is vigorously opposed by inversion of the body in somersaults. Furthermore, the stagnation of large arteries and veins, the great splanchnic pool in the abdomen and lower chest cavities, where perhaps one-third of the blood of the body may accumulate in persons with too much dignity and a melancholic or senile disposition. And finally, somersaults empty and drain various pockets and loops of alimentary tube, and straighten out various kinks in the tube, thus producing a distinctly beneficial effect upon auto-intoxication from such familiar sources.

These facts will explain how somersaults, regularly done, oppose constipation, excess and auto-intoxication; how they oppose melancholic or nervous depression; how they oppose cold hands and cold feet; how they bring back the long lost youthful complexion, and energy and agility and cheerfulness, and I don't know what all.

Somersaults, I say, preserve elastic tissue. And I always mean precisely what I say.

Try them for a month, young folks of forty or over, and you'll get the habit. Get the habit and you'll never grow old.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Why Mothers and Fathers Hide Their Heads.
.....Why do so many mothers seem to consider it a crime to instruct their daughters about the truths of life? Would I have taken the step I have taken had my mother taught me things I have only now learned, when it is too late?

.....Parents who do not feel equal to the task of instructing their children should send their daughters to a competent woman physician, when the children have attained the age of twelve years, for instruction in the use of a safe and sensible solution of the problem.

.....Janet Thayer Stedman, editor-in-chief of the famous feminist publication "Woman," will preface "Mrs. Gordon's address with a few words of her own. Mrs. Stedman has just returned from a western tour, upon which she visited many women's clubs, speaking at each.

There is probably no more hideous human sin than that of mental palsy, with which Janet now fights. The harder she struggled for self-possession the more evident her confusion became. She had a sudden rush back to New York to get away from the place where she was almost more than she could bear of added responsibility.

And now as if to mock her with the impossibility of escape, even for a moment, there were wait and wait, arm in arm—living symbol of harmony and true partnership! It did not occur to Janet that the picture she presented as she stepped from Roy Nicoll's limousine filled Walter's heart with even greater bitterness.

Inside the hall Janet's duties as presiding officer, vouchered her head turned from her own problems. From long practice, she was able to go through the motions of welcome, congratulation and other courtesies due the distinguished guests who presented themselves. It was not until the meeting actually opened that it came over Janet with a rush of terror that she was physically and mentally incapable of making the address.

On limbs that seemed made of tin, Janet rose and stepped forward on the brilliantly lighted platform. She looked at the crowd of faces, and faltered. At last came her voice, and, with the sound of it, a little confidence.

Habit helped her. So long as she kept the more or less stereotyped formula of remarks such as precede the speaker of the evening all went well. But it was on the program that she and not in proportion with the rest of any body. Will walking help them?

Exercise helps to make the shape of the body normal. Walking will help some, but it will be better to take gymnastic work. Besides this, bowling, swimming and tennis would be good.

going with a fellow who has just returned from camp. He acts as if he thinks a lot of me, but I don't care much for him. Please tell me what I can do to learn to like him. Or should I stop going with him when he asks me to go?

Since you do not like the boy, stop going with him. There is little chance that you could force yourself to enjoy him. He might just as well learn the truth now as later.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young lady 20 years old. I went with a fellow about two years before he entered the service. He is now in France and is expecting to return home. I want to meet him at his home on his return. Should I meet him or wait for him to come to see me?

Wait until he comes to see you, unless his mother invites you to be present at his home coming.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When I was a young girl I married the man of my heart. I have a daughter who is staying with her father and step-mother and they do not get along well. The father of the child has asked about me. I was divorced from him and got married and so did not know he is not happy and it is the same with me. Do you think he cares for me? He has asked our daughter where I am and what I am doing and how often she heard from me.

MRS. R. M. C.
Your former husband would naturally be interested to know where you are and about you. The fact that he asked does not indicate that he cares for you. You had your chance to keep his love when you were married to him, and failed. Now give up all thought of him. Since you have both married again you must forget each other entirely.

A Unique Way To Use Silk Fringe

By ELOISE

Here is one of the most stunning street frocks of the future and a few old ones consoling in new ways. There is the long light skirt with a long tunic not quite so light. Then there is the box effect to the blouse with the broad vest. The three-quarter length sleeves which are tight at the shoulders and loose at the elbow is another of the spring's fashions. And the round neck and long straight waistline add the final touches which put the frock in the spring displays rather than in any other.

Navy French serge with a henna colored vest broadened in gold, and with henna silk facing the sleeves is the color combination. The most unusual feature is the novel use made of heavy silk fringe. It is fastened at the top and bottom and under the arm, and is cut away and thus it forms regular openwork bands on the skirt, sleeves and at the neck. A heavy silk cord forms the belt.

Topping this smart frock is a wide, long, straight skirt of fine brown milan entirely covered by sand and black oiled ostrich. The whole costume is quite fitting for the Easter morning service.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Miss Madeline Jaffrey is the first woman from the American continent to have been wounded in the great world war. Miss Jaffrey is a Chicago girl and a trained nurse. In 1915 she went overseas with a Canadian hospital unit to serve in France and Belgium and it was during her stay in Belgium that she was injured.

Her foot was badly hurt in an air raid and she was in a Paris hospital for five months and in an American hospital an additional five months. Clever surgery was the only thing that saved her foot and despite all efforts part of the foot was necessarily amputated. The remainder was carefully treated and one would never guess from her appearance that the missing portions of her foot have been replaced by a clever cork substitute. Besides being the first American woman to be wounded in the war she was the first army nurse to receive a Croix de Guerre, and has a second decoration, and two citations for gallantry in the French government. Miss Jaffrey has been doing splendid work for the Red Cross in assisting them to raise funds, now that she is incapacitated for her nurse duties.

IS WRITER "PROFESSIONAL"
Newspaper women of New York city have plans to present an amendment to the city charter which would exempt them from the restrictions of hours as laid down for women in industry. In the bill pending in the legislature requiring only eight hours per day or 48 hours per week and no work before 7 a. m. and not after 1 p. m. for women, there is an exemption of "professional workers." Whether or not newspaper women are "professional" is a question that has agitated the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs and many other women's organizations. The decision of the Industrial Board has been that newspaper women are exempt, but as the city has not yet made a legal decision but merely an opinion, the women affected are not satisfied. It was first proposed to add an amendment to the pending bill which would exempt newspaper women, but if this bill should not pass the question as to whether or not the writer came under the present labor law, would still be unsettled.

SIDE TALKS

A THING SAVED BETTER THAN A PENNY SAVED.

Don't you find yourself more inclined to save and re-use since the war than you were before? I am greatly interested to discover that tendency in myself. This morning I found myself picking up a small piece of string and carefully putting it away instead of throwing it into the waste basket as I once would have done. (Some people regard the disposal of string as profane at any time, but I don't.) I am not a penny economist. Of wrapping paper, too, I am much more careful. Also I use the backs of envelopes to make notes on, and I still automatically save tin foil.

Things Which Show the Wind of Economy.
These are small things, but if they are true of you, too, they are signs which show that the wind is still blowing in the direction of economy, which is but one more instance of proof of the proverb. "There's no great loss without some small gain."

Indeed, my glasses came home in a pasteboard box instead of a wooden one, the other day. Again, a friend who had some flowers delivered to her told me that the boy asked if she was willing to let the box go back. He said he was paid, so much for each one he brought back. Every box thus used over means labor released for the production of something of actual value. I only hope that we will, as a nation, accept these savings and not reject them now that the need is over. I had that danger forcibly brought to mind by the lady of the flower box. "I gave it to him," she said, "but it did seem to me a cheap thing to do. I think I shall tell Dick to pick out some other place next time." She did not want that box. (I asked her that.) She simply resented the idea.

A Proverb That Always Exasperated Me.
From a child I always objected to the proverb, "A penny saved is a penny earned." I felt vaguely that there was something specious and so-phistical about it. A penny saved has to be a penny earned in the first place, so the saving does not take the place of the earning as the proverb suggests.

"RHEUMATIC KINKS" GO
"NEUTRONE PRESCRIPTION 99"
A WONDER

At last a real does-what-it-says Rheumatic Remedy, nothing like it was ever before known and that is no joke. Every man and woman who has Rheumatism, Gout or Neuralgia, ought to try "Neutrone Prescription 99" at once and see how marvelously it works.

Cut out these fiery liniments and ointments, use a good clean internal remedy. "Neutrone Prescription 99" is remarkable because it purifies the blood, assists in nature's way, gives you aches, pains, a good clean healthy system.

The Golden Eagle Levy's

The Cape, the Kimono Sleeved Top Coat and the Belted, Straight Line Spring Coat

New York has flirted with capes in one form or another for quite a while but this season the leading stylists have accepted it and it is a new vogue.

The styles and effects are very numerous; the three-quarter length capes with ruffles being much favored—also capes combining tricolette and duvety or other combinations, the latter being very dressy and quite the mode for dress occasions.

The kimono sleeved coat, narrow at the hem, will be much worn because of its becoming lines and the fact that it serves the double purpose of suitability for informal and semi-formal wear.

The belted straight line models in all the newest colors and Spring materials are also conspicuous in the stocks.

With the arrivals from New York today our stock resources are their biggest and best, and you will find everything in capes and coats in the special displays to be made in the coat section tomorrow.

The Leading Spring Suit Types, Box Coated or Belted

The silhouette for Spring and Summer is straight and narrow.
The colors quiet and sombre of tone.

The style classifications, each with their votaries, are the box coat suit, the bloused suit, the suit with the Eton front and long tailed back.

In addition to these suits of distinctly differing characteristics, the new season will be a noted one for vests, a keynote struck by the Paris houses and played upon most skillfully by those of New York.

So remarkably smart and varied are the vests that one may let ones fancy run as it will—in color, materials, buttons, and trimmings, so that we see vests of broad-cloths and serges, silks and satins, plain, printed and embroidered.

We are now displaying the authentic and accepted styles in suits in a quite unlimited variety, for this will be a suit season of exceptional character.

By RANDALL FAIRFAX

 "Yes—yes," swiftly. "It is all right, but you must be still. Watkins, Captain Carlyle is conscious. What shall I do?"
 He must have been behind us at the steering oar, for his gruff, kindly voice sounded very close.
 "Ter might lift him up, miss," he said soberly. "He'll breathe better. How's that, Captain?"
 "Much easier," I managed to breathe. "I guess I am all right now. You fished me out?"
 "Sam did. He got a boat hook in your collar. We cast off when you went overboard, and cruised about in the fog hunting for you. Who was it you were fightin' with, sir?"
 "LeVere."
 "That's what I told the lads. He's a gonner. I reckon?"
 "I never saw him after we sank. Are all the men here?"
 "All but those in the forward boat, sir. They got away first, an' we ain't had no sight of 'em since. Maybe we will when it gets daylight. Harwood's in charge. I give him a compass, an' told him ter steer west. Wus that right?"
 "All I could have told him. I haven't had an observation, and it is all guess-work. I know the American coast lies to that direction, but that is about all. I couldn't tell it to be a hundred, or a hundred and fifty miles away. I must have been in bad shape when you pulled me in?"

Dinner Stories

A young man engaged board and lodging in an extremely devout private family. Before each meal a long grace was said. To their horror the new comers sat bolt upright while the new comers reverently bowed their heads. When on the second day the young man evinced no disposition to unbend, the good lady of the house could endure the situation no longer. "Alas!" she asked, sharply. "No, madam," humbly responded the new boarder, "boil."

"Shame has driven many a man into the ranks," declared Lord Northcliffe, "and in this regard we have to thank the women of the nation for turning many a would-be slacker into an excellent soldier. Sometimes, however, they are overzealous. A case of this sort happened recently on a London bus. A young man offered a seat to an elderly lady. She accepted, when she drew herself up haughtily and exclaimed, 'I don't accept favors from slackers.'"

"But he was not taken aback. Instead he regarded the lady critically, and replied: 'Madam, I was all through Gallipoli, and if we had had as much powder down there as you have on your nose, results would have been different.'"

"Are you in favor of protection or free trade?"

"It's a delicate question," replied Senator Borah. "There is a difference of opinion among my constituents as to which I really favor. And I don't propose just now to break in and try to decide any disputes."

"What's the matter aboard there?" he yelled. "Did you ever see a boat yaw like that, afore? Damn me, if I believe they got a hand at the wheel."

The same thought had leaped into my mind. The schooner was headed to pass us on the port quarter, yet yawing so crazily at times as to make me fearful of being run down. I could perceive no sign of life aboard, no signal that we had been seen. The slight anger me.

"You give me hope—a wonderful hope."

"And courage," her hands firmly clasping mine. "Courage to fight on in faith. I would have that my gift to you, Geoffrey. We are in peril still, great peril, but you will face it beside me, knowing that whether we live or die we are together. I am not afraid any more."

CHAPTER XXVI.

A Floating Coffin.

The laboring boat rested so low in the water it was only as we were thrown upward on the crest of a wave that I could gain any view about through the pallid light of the dawn. It was all a desolate, restless waste in the midst of which we tossed, while above hung masses of dark clouds obscuring the sky. We were but a hurrying speck between the gray above and the gray below.

The first thing needing my attention was the food and water. I crept forward cautiously and soon had Sam busily engaged in passing out the various articles for inspection. Only essentials had been chosen, yet the supplies seemed ample for the distance I believed we would have to cover before attaining land. But the nature of that unknown coast was so doubtful I determined to deal out the provisions sparingly, saving every crumb possible. The men grumbled at the smallness of the ration, yet munched away contentedly enough, once convinced that we all shared alike.

"All right, lads," I said cheerfully. "Now we understand each other and can get at work. We'll divide into watches first of all—two men at here and one at the bow. Watkins and I will take it watch and watch, but there is enough right now for all hands to turn to and make the craft shipshape. Two of you bail out that water till she's dry, and the others get up a jib. She'll ride easier and make better progress with more canvas showing."

The men gradually knocked off work and lay down, and finally I yielded to Dorothy's pleadings and fell into a sound sleep. It seemed as though I scarcely lost consciousness, yet I must have slept for an hour or more, my head pillowed on her lap. When I awoke Schmitt was again at the steering paddle, and both he and Dorothy were staring across me out over the port quarter.

"What is it?" I asked eagerly, but before the words were entirely uttered a hoarse voice forward, bawled out excitedly:

"There you see it, straight out again that cloud edge. It's a full-rigged schooner."

"Ay," boomed another, "an' headin' straight cross our course astern."

I reached my feet, clinging to the mast to keep erect and, as the boat was again flung upward, gained clearly the glimpse I sought.

"Ay, you're right, lads!" I exclaimed. "It's a schooner, headed to clear us by a hundred fathoms. Port your helm, Schmitt—hard down, man. Now, Sam, off with that red shirt; tie it on the boat hook and let fly. They can't help seeing us if there is any watch on deck."

We swept about in a wide circle, headed straight across the bows of the on-coming vessel. All eyes stared out watchfully. Sam's shirt flapping above us, and both Watkins and Schmitt straining their muscles to hold the plunging quarter-boat against the force of the wind. A man forward on his knees growled out a curse.

"What's the matter aboard there?" he yelled. "Did you ever see a boat yaw like that, afore? Damn me, if I believe they got a hand at the wheel."

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

THIS LOOKS LIKE BIG YEAR FOR ROOKIES;
MANY MAKING GOOD

(By JACK VELOCK)

New York, April 1.—Major league managers are paying an unusual amount of attention to the "rookies" this season.

There are perhaps half a hundred youngsters in the dumps of big league clubs below the Mason and Dixon line today whose work is being closely watched. They were good enough to deserve a tryout and the managers are making books on them.

The reason for close attention to the young players lies in the fact that little new talent has come from the minor leagues because of the war. The demand for a prospective star therefore demands careful looking over.

Many on "Coning" List

Nearly every one of the sixteen big league clubs boasts at least one youngster who is being labeled as a coming star. The list of names is long. Among the players mentioned in reports from the southland are apparently in line for regular jobs.

Two of the youngsters with the Giants and Yankees, Earl Smith, the youthful catcher secured from Rochester, bids fair to become familiar to the fans around the National league as McGraw's starved strike. According to present indications he will be Low McCarthy's first assistant.

College Bird Delivers

George Hidas, erstwhile college player, who attracted attention with the naval training station at Chicago, is reported to have a foothold on the big league job with the Yankees. His ability to hit consistently has not yet been demonstrated to Miller Huggins. Dick Kerr, a left handed pitcher who played with the White Sox last season, is striving to win a regular berth with the White Sox at Mineral Wells. Manager Glendon is reported to be well satisfied with Kerr and predictions are made that he will be retained.

George Uple, another pitcher, has gladdened the heart of Lee Fohl at New Orleans. Uple is a Cleveland prospect who is being picked up by the Indians.

RIBBONS FOR TRACK
MEET WINNERS HERE

Ribbons to be awarded the winners in each event of the final track meet between the city boys and high school classes arrived today and were placed on exhibition in the boys' department and in the main lobby. Blue ribbons for first place, red for second, and white for third, make up the awards on display. All are embossed in gold lettering, giving the name of the event and the track meet. The shot-put and 150-yard hurdles will be run off in the high school classes this afternoon and in the employed boys' class tonight. With nearly 30 entries in each event competition is keen.

200-BOWLERS ROLL
AGAIN MONDAY NIGHT

Bowlers who are members of the 200-club of the Y. M. C. A. will put another meeting on the Y. M. C. A. Monday night. There are now 12 men who want to qualify so they can compete Monday night may perform on the alleys and bowls. This week is hoped to secure at least 15 men so three teams can work out at the big tourney.

Business Men Indulge in Indoor Baseball Fest

Business men indulged in an indoor baseball fest at their regular club meeting yesterday afternoon. Two pick-up teams battled for several innings. George King, doing the shub work for one side showed good form and held the men who faced him but he was out of the game when the opposition didn't have much on the ball and was batted all over the lot. King's nine copped.

Tales of the Friendly
Forest

It didn't take the Billy Goat long to buy the War Savings Stamp with the ten cent gold piece Uncle Lucky had given him, and pretty soon he came out with the Three-in-One-Cent Stove and said to the two little rabbits who were waiting outside in the Lucky mobile:

"I must go home now, because if I don't I might lose all those nice stamps."

"All right," said Billy Bunny. "Good-bye," cried Uncle Lucky, and then the Billy Goat went home, and the two little rabbits drove off as fast as they could with the bunch of stamps. "Don't you ever let a pig bluff you again," said Uncle Lucky. "If he had been a lion, maybe I wouldn't have done what I did, but a pig—"

"Well, after a while, and a laugh and a smile, the two little rabbits came to a place where

"I'm going to pick some roses for mother," said Billy Bunny, and he hopped out of the Lucky mobile and gathered a lovely bunch. But, oh, dear me, just as he was about to hop back into the Lucky mobile, a deep, growling voice, from behind the stone wall said:

"How dare you steal my wild roses?"

"Who are you?" asked Uncle Lucky as bravely as he could.

"I'll show you," replied the voice, and then a big wild pig lifted his head and then he opened his mouth and shut his little black eyes, and then he wiggled one of his long bristly ears.

"Oh, dear, I'll give them back to you," said Billy Bunny.

"Who are you?" asked Uncle Lucky as bravely as he could.

"Those wild roses don't belong to this wild pig any more than they belong to the Wild Man of Bodmin."

"And the old gentleman rabbit gave the Lucky mobile horn a sudden loud honk, which frightened the wild pig so that he fell over backward."

"And while he was picking himself up and dusting the dirt off his back, for he was a very particular kind of a pig, the two little rabbits drove off as fast as they could with the bunch of stamps."

The Daily Novelette

THE CONFESSION.

(Synopsis of preceding chapters: Although he wouldn't admit it even to his reflection in the glass, Darnott Stringer is madly in love with Cassodena Chones. Although Cassodena is always going in an opposite direction from Darnott, this fact only increases his ardor—to the point of suicide if he doesn't get a chance to explode his passion at her feet. It seems so probable that when he meets her on the street, every time she is just going the other way, even if she were going his way in the first place. It really looks as though she did it rancorously. Then, too, if he goes to a party or dance and sees her there, she is going home. Or when he meets her in a store or chop house, she is just about to leave him. Well, anyway things are just like this when Darnott decides to marry her. So, chartering a trolley car for the afternoon, he runs up and down the streets of Pittsburg until he sees Cassodena tripping across the street. Just as she is about to cross the tracks, he sends the car shooting forward, rushes to the back platform and grasps her. "Hold on!" he shouts. "I am going his way, so Darnott dies a piece of the cloth on the trolley seat over her mouth and stuns the car in front of a preacher's house. When it is dark, he takes her in and becomes her husband in a few words. This impetuous love-making enrals Cassodena and she becomes desperately in love with her husband, after her hate of him is gone. They live happily for many years—then—ah, then—falls the thunderbolt.)

"Darny!" whispered Cassodena, tremblingly. "I can't stand it any longer. I must tell you!"

JANESVILLE BALL TEAM COMPLETE; PLAY SUNDAY

(By K. L. EAGON).

Janesville has a baseball team. And says the first time next Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at the Fair Grounds.

The Janesville Wooden Mills got its challenge in even before the Janesville team had any team, money and time and the challenge has been accepted for nine innings of baseball at the Fair Grounds, beginning at 1:30 p. m. Sunday afternoon, next.

Here's the Janesville lineup, in the order in which they will bat, rearer to rearer:

Vobian, 2b.; Dapp, 1b.; Pire, ss.; Cuts, 3b.; Schauer, rf.; Viney or Lohrman, cf.; Pearson, lf.; Schauer, c.

Bick, Berger and Kikusko, p.

Although the mercury was hovering about 28 above zero last night, there was more than a score of men on hand, eager to toss the pill around and take a swing at it with their favorite willow.

It was so dark when the boys called it a night that the fielders had to use lanterns to recover the pill if it failed to land direct in their territory.

Three Pitches Performed.

The remainder of the regular team who although half frozen, drove out some pretty fair hits.

Berger, who has not seen active duty for more than a year, said he was surprised how good his wing was.

He showed more speed than a shine at a prize cakewalk, and had a drop that would worry George Riser.

Kikusko, too, had plenty of smoke on his offerings, and the boys found it hard to touch him up. Bick wasn't on hand, but has promised to participate in the game Sunday and Viney said he might ask for a bit.

Young Pearson tossed up from the box a white Monday night. Pearson has a remarkable whip. He threw from deep left to the plate in batting practice, and in efficiency with the willow demonstrated so emphatically on Sunday, led Captain Schauer and Manager Ragon to decide to use him in left field, when the team takes on the Wooden Mills bunch Sunday.

Pearson, as a pitcher, has a clever slow ball that makes the big fellows break their backs reaching for it, and in time it is believed he will develop into a considerable of a pitcher. At present, we're glad to have him in left field.

to nail the heavy drives and flies that annoy him and to bat in several nippers.

Bert Cuts, who started out to catch, is going like a house afire. This big fellow is a born ball player, and stops, and hangs on to anything and every thing that comes his way. He and Schauer will divide the backstop work. But for the present Cuts will perform at third.

Others Look Good

Others, who looked good Monday night, were Pire, at short stop, a speedy youngster, at the initial sack, and Vobian, who looks like a second Buck Weaver.

Practice has been called for 6:30 (six-thirty) o'clock tomorrow (Wednesday) night at the Fair Grounds diamond. Every one of the regular players MUST be on hand PROMPTLY at 6:30. We want to get in a full hour of workout, and may challenge the Scrubs to a three or four innings of snappy baseball.

It will be several weeks before the Janesville team is ready to put a lineup in the field that is formidable enough to take on all comers. The present team will be used in practice games for the time being, and, as ability or the lack of it is shown in these contests, players will be dropped and others put in their places, until the Janesville baseball team is a solid machine, capable of meeting them all.

Crack Twirlers sought.

Negotiations already have been started to get a couple of professional, big league pitchers. In a few weeks when the big league teams first forced to cut their rosters to mid season, it is believed that Janesville will be able to pick up the services of two or three real fast slab artists.

In the meantime, the writer would like to hear from some one made-in-Janesville business man, merchant, or ordinary citizen, who thinks enough of the city in which he lives to see that its baseball team has a diamond to play on. The services of a roller to smooth out the diamond is needed quick.

WOULD STAGE BIG FIGHT

Pocatello, Idaho, April 1.—A committee of business men, selected from Idaho, Oregon, Utah and Montana, will leave Pocatello on April 15 for New York to hold a personal conference with Tex Rickard and seek to have Pocatello the scene of the twenty round Willard-Dempsey fight on July 4. The commission will be prepared to post $50,000 guarantee to get the fight.

SPORT SERIAL

(By K. L. EAGON)

We're off. We got a pretty fair looking lineup to hurl at the birds as want to battle us. And we're going to grow every day. Look out, lady!

Right here it wants to be said that Sunday, April 6, will be Ladies' Day at the Fair Grounds. It will be the first game of the season. Hence, Ladies First. The fair sex will be as welcome as Bryan in Kansas.

Right off the bat, as it were, the well-known and prominent Mr. Pire, cowering at shortfield, got jammed in the back by the first ball that came his way. He didn't mind that half as much as the cold, however, he said.

Alfie Berger showed so much speed three batters got a free shave and five others carved their initials in the air. As a baseball diamond, part of the Fair Grounds field is one, swell race-track.

Miss Feminine Fan said this morning that it was too early in the season to predict anything further than that it was her firm belief that Janesville baseball bugs were all batty. Right, girlie. We'll save you the same front seat for every game.

The greatest victory since the allies took Chalieu-Thierry—our w. k. and p. boss looked over his shoulder while we were writing this and said he'd be out next Sunday and we took the stockings makers down the line. Gee, stocking makers down the line. A suffragist at a prizefight a few days ago. Gee. A couple gees.

Even St. Peter could not incite the Park Alley Five No. 2 Madison to an onslaught on the pins sufficiently peppery to throw a scare into the bowlers who will compete in the Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois Bowling tournament, which started last night at "Hank" Robbins emporium on Academy street.

St. Peter is not very long from north to south, but he is built close to the floor, and has an advantage over his teammates in that he does not have to lower the ball very far when he shoots it down the track. But anyway, the first Madison team did not warm up to the task before them and their scores were high.

In the team work "Chuck" Rieder and Pete Reif wangled the sticks for 543 each and they were the best scores in that event. Mike Dickert, who can slant out a 200 score quite frequently when he gets to working right, was way off in his first games and only garnered 495 in the team play.

The afore-mentioned St. Peter, even in all his celestial glory could only muster 532, while our old friend Tommy Carey, who is generally there or thereabouts in the final reckoning, was as feeble as a Janesville maiden flirting with a soldier and even with a brand new piece of rayon could only mark up 504 pins.

Fuller entered the picture in the doubles when he hooked up with Pete Reif. That pair rolled high for three games with 1074. Dickert and Carey scored 1035 with Mike on the long end with 226. Tommy fozzled and could garner only 155.

Shorty St. Peter and Rieder tossed a neck and neck game for a total of 1032, with the Saint one pin to the good with 169.

Shorty did come to life in the singles to the extent of leading his teammates, but at that the score was not one that would be expected of a personage so renowned. He battered them only for a 559 count. Dickert rolled 540.

The alleys are in fine shape and before the tourney ends, some good scores will be marked up. Water town High Lites are booked for a performance tonight. O'Brien who did some fast stepping on the Sun Prairie alleys at the time the Goldfish recently grabbed the grapes, will be in action.

Tomorrow night our Goldfish will spill the maples and "Hank" Robbins says they will make all comers stop some to climb over their scores.

"Hank" thinks we should have a band for the home boys, but unless they are good rag-time bowlers they had better let the band of the Hiram vitae or shony or whatever the balls are made of, furnish the music.

Thursday will witness an invasion from Madison, when some of the crack pin rollers of that city will try out their prowess. Among them will be the famous Schwoegler brothers, as well as the more or less renowned Schilling brothers, George Post, Jack Kohl, Ed. Noron, John McCard, "Kid" Gaffney and our old friend "Augie" Schmitz. We have not heard whether George Paltz with his happy smile and wood-getting "hook" will be among those present.

Those who have entered have declared their determination to take back home with them the Gazette cup for the highest individual score in any event.

FORMAL OPENING OF EAST SIDE ALLEYS TOMORROW EVENING

OPENING PROGRAM.
Nelson's Knockouts vs. Puples, Beloit.
Clausen's Colts vs. Wright's Tigers, Beloit.
Kueck's Gazette Five vs. Dorr's All Stars, Beloit.

With three Janesville-Beloit games on the docket to furnish excitement, the formal opening of the remodelled, rejuvenated, and refurbished East Side bowling alleys will be held tomorrow night. All three games will start at 8 o'clock.

The Puples are coming here with a quintet which has been tearing things up all over this section of the state. This team is considered easily the fastest one in Beloit. Oscar Nelson has gathered together a gang of Steppes who are no slouches with the ball themselves, and Nelson guarantees to slip one over on the Gateway City bowlers.

Little is known of the strength of Wright's Tigers but Clausen's Colts can hit a big score if necessary to win. George Kueck's highly touted Gazette five is due for a tough battle when it bucks up against Dorr's All Stars in the third game.

Everything is in great shape for the opening tomorrow.

The alleys are all in first class condition. Henry Dornbaker, new owner of the drives, has gone to great expense to make the alleys modern and now says he has one of the best sets of drives in the state.

The old lightweight kick-backs have been replaced with heavier ones. One alley on the first floor has been completely torn out and the other three moved over so they correspond to regulations. The alleys on the second floor have been refinished, and the floor have been reinforced. The redecorated in green and buff. The runways have been lengthened.

"Dorr" is one of the best known

128 HORSES ENTERED IN INITIAL GRAND CIRCUIT MEET JULY 7

(By Associated Press.)

Cleveland, Ohio, April 1.—A total of 128 entries have been received for the five stake events to be contested for at the first Grand Circuit meeting at North Randall track the week of July 7. The entries assure big fields in all events.

The Ohio 2:08 trot has 26 entries; the Tavern, 2:14 trot, 31; the Edwards, 2:08 pace, 22; the Forest City two year old trot, 36 and the Pasa three year old trot, 19 entries.

In the Ohio stake a wonderful field of trotters will compete, including many stars of the 1918 Grand Circuit. The list includes Drell, Country C, "Pop" Green horse; Legal W, picked last year as a two minute trotter, Alle Lou, 2:00½ the champion trotter of the Pacific Coast; McGregor, the Great, 2:03½ and Red Don, 2:09½.

The field in the Edwards pacing stake looks like the greatest that event has ever drawn and several entries look good enough for the free for all, including Peter Look, 2:01½, that won second money in the stake last year and Samard, Murphy's entry, which, eastern horsemen claim, will be the next two minute pacer.

It is expected that from among the thirty-six entries in the Forest City two year old trot will be found the champion two year old trotter of the coming season.

Practically all the crack two year olds of 1918 are named in the Fasig three year old trot. The list includes the Princess Blawiah, Brunsdor and a few other high class youngsters.

bowlers in the state. He has been active in the game for over 25 years installing alleys in various cities. He was the man who put the first alleys in Rockford. He likes Janesville and is ready to give the fans the best drive possible.
